

Savings Booster Checklist

For your Constitution: twelve small moves that add a cushion.

John says: Nobody builds a cushion in one heroic leap. It's a dozen small, boring moves that nobody notices. Check them off as you go.

This week

- ☐ List every subscription on your card statements. Cancel one you forgot you had.
- ☐ Turn on round-ups if your bank offers them: every purchase rounds up and the change goes to savings.
- ☐ Open a separate savings account and name it after what it protects ("Rainy Day," "Car Fund").
- ☐ Set one automatic transfer for the day after payday, even $10.

This month

- ☐ Call your insurance company and ask if you're getting every discount. Then get one competing quote.
- ☐ Sell one thing you no longer use. Whatever it brings goes to the fund.
- ☐ Use the 24-hour rule: anything over $50 that isn't a bill waits a day before you buy it.
- ☐ Cook one more meal at home per week than you do now. Move the difference to savings on Sunday.

This year

- ☐ Split your direct deposit at work so a slice lands in savings before you see it.
- ☐ Give every windfall a rule before it arrives: half to savings, half to whatever you like.
- ☐ When you get a raise, move half of the increase into your automatic transfer.
- ☐ Once a year, ask your bank for a better savings rate or move to one that offers it.
