

THE FINANCIAL DM • LOOT DROP

The Beneficiary Check

Is your coverage going where you think?

John says: The name on that form decides where your coverage goes. Make sure it's the right one.

The checklist

- ☐ List a primary and a backup (contingent) beneficiary.
- ☐ Use full names.
- ☐ Make sure percentages add up to 100%.
- ☐ Don't leave it blank.
- ☐ Check retirement accounts too, since they use beneficiary designations as well.
- ☐ Review after a marriage, divorce, birth or adoption, or the death of a beneficiary.

Your tracker

Policy or account	Primary	Contingent	Last checked

Thinking of naming your kids? Talk with an estate attorney first about the best way to set that up for minors.

Good to know

- A beneficiary designation usually overrides a will.
- If no beneficiary is named, or none is living, the money may go to your estate and through probate.
- Minors generally can't receive the money directly; a trust or custodian can be set up for them.

Want help with this? Grab a seat at John's table.

calendly.com/thefinancialdm-proton/30min

The Financial DM • John, Licensed Term Life Agent

For educational purposes only. Not a quote, a recommendation, or legal or tax advice. Coverage details vary by policy and employer.